Keep Connected to the Office

The DOTVOX mobile app is the out-of-the-office extension that makes mobile communication possible, keeping your employees connected and operating at maximum efficiency using the company's network.

With the app, employees have access to all their normal office communication functions and features—like voice and video communication, instant messaging, and group message capabilities, for example—on preferred Android or iOS devices. Users will also have the ability to easily make system changes or configurations while mobile.
